Native Nebraskan, soulful country crooner, entertaining performer and—the next big thing!

There are a lot of ways to describe up and coming country music sensation Lexi Larsen, who is collecting accolades and fans on her way up the charts, but there's certainly no replacement for seeing her perform and hearing her breathtaking music firsthand. This small town girl turned Nashville songstress, is currently making music and writing songs with the boomtown's top songwriters. Her first single, "You Can Leave," rose steadily up the charts, reaching 37 on the Music Row Chart and 53 on Billboard Indicator—an impressive feat for any indie artist.

Lexi Larsen is proving she's the real deal—the singer has sold out shows in Nashville and was chosen as the first Brand Ambassador for Durango Boots. Lexi has been performing at fairs and festivals and has opened for Jon Pardi, Dwight Yoakam, Phil Vassar, Restless Heart, Emerson Drive, Love & Theft and the Dirty River Boys. She also was invited to sing the Star Spangled Banner for the National Finals Rodeo in Las Vegas, performed at the famed Venetian, and traveled overseas captivating crowds in Xian, China!

To add to the momentum, Lexi just released her new EP entitled, "Shakin" featuring three new songs she co-wrote including Jesus and Me, If I Was Bad and Shakin'!

Lexi was named as One to Watch by CMA Magazine and since the release of her first single, radio stations all over the country are tuning in to hear what's next.

Troy House, Musical Director, WFKC-FM, WKKQ-FM, and WKFO-FM says, "Powerful voice...reminds me of Carrie Underwood, but with something more," and it seems that Jerry Proctor, Musical Director/Program Director, WTYS agrees. "I've been doing this for 25 years—this lady is original and the real deal. Expect great things from Lexi!"

Lexi is set to depart on her seventh tour through the Midwest and Northeast. She has assembled a fantastic band in Nashville and they are ready to tear their way through the heart of the country, greeting old fans, making new friends and sharing her music.

Meet The Band

Phil Ortiz found his love for playing guitar at an early age. Going from Punk Rock, to Metal, to pop, and finally country, Phil has been known, by most, as a well rounded player. He was born and raised in the suburbs of Chicago and move to Nashville after college. Since making the move, Phil and Lexi have been on numerous radio tours, opened for some of their favorite artists, and played the main stage for many festivals. Phil is currently road managing and band leading for Lexi while rocking along side her on the stage.

Allie Summers performs not only as a fiddle player, but also as a singer with various acts in Nashville, Tennessee. Allie's traditional fiddling background, where she was one-half of a bluegrass duo alongside her banjo-picking father, provided a foundation that led her on the path to exploring and perfecting her art and skill through various genres of music, including classical, jazz, rock, hip-hop, country, and bluegrass. A graduate of Butler University in Indianapolis, Indiana, and 4-year member of the Butler Symphony Orchestra, Allie has gone on to share her gift and education with others through performance. Allie currently plays with several bands, including country artist Lexi Larsen and bluegrass band Blue Moon. You can see Allie perform weekly at Tootsie's in downtown Nashville.

Brad DuVall was selected as a 'Guitar God' by the Tulsa World newspaper for many, many good and well-documented reasons. Serenading his family at 5 with 'Tiger By The Tail' on a plastic guitar. This, of course, led to much more. His career spans five decades, going back to his days in Tulsa clubs, playing guitar and bass before he could drive, much less legally enter the clubs in which he was playing, having played both instruments backing many musicians, including a young Ronnie Dunn. He has performed numerous times before crowds as great as 80,000 during the Country Jam Concert Series, Country Fever and A Day In The Country. This also led to playing alongside of many of country's finest, including Trace Atkins, Blake Shelton, Kenny Chesney, Lonestar, Diamond Rio and many others.

Jim Thacker is a touring and recording professional who has shared the stage with artists in wide a variety of musical styles. He is equally at home playing country, rock, jazz, blues and just about anything in between. His experience includes extensive touring in Europe, Canada and all fifty U.S. states. When not on the road Jim enjoys duties as owner/operator at OTD Studios in Nashville, TN.

Mark Young began playing music around 12 years old in Southeastern Missouri where he grew up. Starting out performing in weekend Branson style variety shows as a rhythm guitarist and vocalist. Then, at 14 years old after selling a cow for $500, he bought his first drum set and never looked back. After performing on drums with his family band and countless other local acts in Missouri, Mark moved to Nashville Tennessee in the fall of 1993. He has since toured the country with many Nashville bands and artists.

RISING NEWCOMER LEXI LARSEN RELEASES DEBUT ALBUM
"GOOD MEMORIES "

Music Row Magazine Picks Her For The DisCOVERY Award
For Her Powerful Lead Single "You Can Leave"
Video For Debut Single "You Can Leave" Added At GACtv.com, Digital Rodeo and Roughstock

Nashville, TN - Lexi Larsen, country music's rising newcomer and one of the Country Music Association's CMA Closeup magazine's "Who New To Watch in 2014" picks, will release her debut album Good Memories on Tuesday, April 8. The album release comes on the heels of some great reviews rolling in on her and her lead single "You Can Leave," written by Larsen, Karin Paparelli and Felicia Fay King. Lexi has made strong impressions with radio programmers while she was on her "Go Pink Radio Tour." As she travelled around the country in her Mom's trademark Mary Kay Pink Cadillac, she was hoping to empower people with her music like she learned by example while growing up in the back of that Pink Cadillac watching her Mom empower women through her job as a National Sales Director for Mary Kay Cosmetics: "The Go Pink Radio Tour for the single was such an amazing experience," says Lexi. "We loved making so many new friends!"

Along with Lexi's love of country music and stellar vocal chords – she also shows off her songwriting prowess on her album Good Memories with the song "Something About A Sunday" and her debut single, "You Can Leave." Lexi funded her album Good Memories through Kickstarter with the help of her fervent fan base. The fans spoke up and showed their confidence in her and love for her music and before the 30 day time period was up, she had collected a veritable mountain of donations to make the album she'd dreamed of.

"You Can Leave" recently went for radio adds at country radio and has been receiving rave reviews from media and radio programmers. Music Row Magazine's Robert K. Oermann picked Lexi for the DisCOVERY Award for the week of Feb 19 saying of Lexi "The lady can sing." He says "You Can Leave" is "Very promising. Loaded with vocal dynamics. She sings the verses in a husky, expressive alto, then belts out the choruses in a confident, shiny soprano. This woman certainly knows her way around a song."

"Powerful voice ... reminds me of Carrie Underwood, but with something more."
Troy House, Music Director, WKFC/WKKQ/WKFO - London, KY

"When I heard this song I got a little stoked! Added in heavy rotation out of the gate."
Jerry Proctor, MD/PD- Marianna, FL.

"This girl is amazing!! We are loving it."
Steve Robbins, Music Director, WMMG - Brandenburg, KY

"Can't wait to share this song with our audience. It's solid and well-produced."
Troy House, Music Director, WKFC/WKKQ/WKFO - London, KY

The video for “You Can Leave” has been added on Great American Country’s GACtv.com, Digital Rodeo and Roughstock with more to be added soon.

Born and raised in corn country Nebraska, Lexi Larsen is a soulful sounding small-town girl with big city appeal. From the Galaxy of Stars® Talent Search to the regional Colgate Country Showdown, she’s been building a solid fan base across the country. In December, Lexi earned a coveted slot to sing the national anthem at the National Finals Rodeo.

The singer/songwriter has opened for Country Music Hall of Fame music legend Ronnie Milsap, hitmaker Phil Vassar, Warner Bros recording trio Gloriana as well as Grammy-nominated Emerson Drive and most recently the award-winning Restless Heart. Lexi has captivated crowds as far away as Xian, China with a combination of her unassuming charm and powerhouse voice. Lexi took her new sound on a recent summer tour that brought her from the wild motorcycle rally at Sturgis, South Dakota to a sold-out show in her hometown of Ogallala, Nebraska at the famous Haythorn Ranch. With her country cool, she’s at home anywhere and garnering lifelong fans with the work of a few notes.

Like her single says—you can leave, but you won’t want to.
